Dear Parishioners,

We now find ourselves close to end of our journey through the Advent season. Reaching the fourth weekend of Advent, we have done much for getting ourselves prepared for the birth of Jesus Christ. It is my wish that all of your hearts have become filled with much hope, peace, joy, and love. In the midst of our external preparations, that can quite often overshadow our spiritual journey this time of the year, I remind our community to stay watchful and fully share in the Christmas liturgies here at Holy Name. Our Christmas celebrations are incredibly beautiful and are truly the fundamental essence of the Christmas season. I invite our Parish Community, as well as all friends, families, visitors, or any persons who need to find their way home this Christmas to join us at Mass. Please invite and encourage your neighbours and friends, who may not be joining us regularly, to join us. I am certain that by coming home not only to the Parish Community of Holy Name, but also in following the light of the star to our Lord, every one of us will be touched by the spirit of the season, and will both receive and share in the hope, peace, joy, and love that are truly the greatest Christmas gifts imaginable.

Fr. Vijai, C.S.C.
